GREETINGS

To our many gardening friends—and those we hope to make through this little catalog, we extend our greetings and best wishes. May your gardens be a never ending source of beauty and enjoyment.

Since it is said that one picture is better than ten thousand words we are again featuring pictures taken in our gardens in 1948. The present crop of plants give every indication of being just as fine and many fine varieties have been added to keep abreast of the times.

Our garden is always open to visitors and especially at blooming time, usually between May 1st and 20th. The location is North 16th Avenue, two blocks north of Fruitvale Boulevard, directly in back of the furniture factory, or we may be reached at our home by telephoning 3-3935.

Many thanks for your orders—and—COME AND SEE US SOMETIME!

Sincerely,

JACK G. LINSE.

PLANTING AND CULTURE

Our Tall Bearded Irises are among the easiest of all garden plants to grow. Plant in any good, well drained garden soil, in full or at least half sun, two to three feet apart, covering the rhizome with about an inch of soil. Firm well, using the feet; water, and keep moist until well established. Water occasionally thereafter, if too dry, but not too late in the fall. Safe fertilizers are bone meal and well rotted compost. Others may be used, but cautiously, keeping well away from the plants. Clumps should be divided when they become crowded, in perhaps three years, shortly after they have bloomed.

IRISES OF DISTINCTION

In our list the name of the variety will be followed by the name of the originator and the year of introduction—in parenthesis. This in turn will be followed by the highest award won (if any) from the American Iris Society, Dykes M. will signify the Dykes Medal; AM the Award of Merit and HM Honorable Mention, and the year awarded, and last will come the height in inches as given by the originator, and the general description. It should be remembered that the height will vary under various conditions of soil and climate.

INTRODUCING—1950

LADY IN BLUE (Hope 50) 42".

This lovely pale frosty blue brings the delectable coloring of Mountain Sky to an iris as hardy as an oak. Bred from Beuchley's Giant x Great Lakes, it withstood the 11° below zero of 1948 without covering, when all about it were killed in the Hope garden. The large formal flowers have firm domed standards, horizontally flaring falls—without ruffling, and heaviest substance. Stalks are tall and well branched. A worthwhile addition to the ranks of all too few good doers among new varieties.
